Beth Beaten in Same Season-Princeton's Promising Nucleus for Next Year—Indians Show What a Light Team Can Do Best Schoolboy Players-Other News.

The real climax of the college football season same last Saturday when Princeton drubbed Yale, which fact, while it does not affect the interest in the Harvard-Yale game, takes some of the glamour off it. The Har vard-Yale, like the Yale-Princeton, game is peculiar unto itself and has its own distinction, irrespective of the previous season's records of the teams; but, nevertheless, it is a novelty for Harvard and Yale to meet after both have been beaten the same year. That will be the case this year. The last time Harvard and Vale were both beaten in one season was in 1896, Harvard by Pennsylvania and Yale by Princetons but they did not meet that year. In 1889 Princeton beat Yale after Yale had beaten Harvard, and in 1890 Yale van-outshed Princeton after Harvard had disposed of Yale. Since 1898 the Harvard-Yale game has come after the Yale-Princeton game, and in that time, and before, there has been no season when the Crimson and the Blue toed the scratch against each other with defeats charged to both. The Harvard-Yale games for the last six years present an interesting array of figures There has been two 0 to 0 games in that period, but not one of the other four games was even close. Each side has been defeated twice, and in all four instances the defeated side failed to score. This is in marked contrast to the last five Vale-Princeton games, in four of which there had been scoring by both teams. No less than ninety points have been made in the last five Harvard-Yale games—thirty-nine by Harvard and fifty-one by Yale.

With each side having tasted defeat, Harvard and Yale will come together under circumstances that border on the unique. The indications are that the game will be less one-sided than usual. Whatever superiority Yale may have had over Harvard before last Saturday, the battered condition of the Yale players resulting from the Princeton game tends to equalize matters. Yale followed defeat by Harvard in 1890 by beating Princeton soundly and followed defeat by Princeton in 1898 by being soundly beaten by Harvard, so her experience in recovering from defect is equal in success and failure. It is a question whether Harvard's defeat by Dartmouth or the bruised hearts and muscle sustained by the Yale men is the more discouraging. The confidence, which bordered on overconfidence, that existed in the Yale camp prior to being a meal for the Tiger is not now in evidence. And Harvard is even less hopeful. As a etting proposition there is not the desire to place money on either team as was the case with Yale and Princeton. The last time a 2 to 1 favorite for one of these big games went down with a dull thud was when Princeton lost to Yale in 1897. Princeton was a much more logical 2 to 1 favorite on that occasion that Yale was last Saturday.

For hext year the Champion Princeton eleven does not lose much material in quan-tity, but a good deal in quality. Seniors on the team who will be graduated next June are Capt. De Witt, Davis and Henry, the ends. and Reed, the tackle. De Witt's place will be the hardest to fill, both because of De Witt's all around value as a player and because he was a spiendid captain. Davis and Henry are both ends of the very first rank, but Princeton does not often fall to turn out first class ends. The best substitute end at Princeserve and who is but little behind the two regular men. Brasher, the other first subregular men. Brasher, the other first substitute end, is also promising and in another year will be better. For the vacancy caused by De Witt's going there is Rafferty, '06, a big strong man, not to mention Waller. Carothers and Daub gre tackles who may fill Reed's shoes acceptably. Of the team that faced Yale, Cooney, tackle: Dillon, guard: Short, centre: Vetterlein and Burke, quarter backs: King, Kafer, Miller, Hart, all backs: and Foulke, half back, remain. Thus the Digner will have the entire back field left. Barney, the substitute centre, also remains. It is a most promising nucleus on which to build a strong team for 1964, though what a year may bring forth is good deal of a lottery.

The Carlisle Indians this year have been the most conspicuous success of a light team, making up in speed and quickness what it. stitute end, is also promising and in another year will be better. For the vacancy caused by De Witt's going there is Rafferty, '06, a big strong man, not to mention Waller. Carothers and Daub are tackles who may fill Reed's shoes acceptably. Of the team that faced Yale, Cooney, tackle: Dillon, guard; Short, centre: Vetterlein and Burke, quarter backs: King, Kafer, Miller, Hart, all backs; and Foulke, half back, remain. Thus the Tigers will have the entire back field left. Barney, the substitute centre, also remains. It is a most promising nucleus on which to build a strong team for 1904, though what a year may bring forth is good deal of a lottery. stitute end, is also promising and in another the most conspicuous success of a light team, making up in speed and quickness what it lacked in weight and strength. Evidently Coach Warner has developed the natural physical qualifications of his team to their highest pitch. More than that, the Indians have played more consistently this year than ever-before. The in and out form noticeable heretofore has been absent. Teams heavier than themselves that the Indians met were Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Bucknell, and they beat the latter two, made it points to Harvard's twelve and held Princeton to its points. Lehigh, for a light team also, had done very well, and Princeton's deleaf of Yale was a notable instance of the lighter team carrying the day.

Among the New York school teams four or five players stand out in bold relief in the season's work. One of these is Dalley, full back of the Cutler team, whom critics pronounce one of the best backs in local Manhattan school' flistory. He is big and fast and is booked for Yale next fall. Another good player is Ellingwood, half back at Dwight, who is going to Princeton. Cahili, half back at Barnard, is also going to Princeton. Donovan, half back at Columbia Grammar, is going to Columbia Amezaga, the De La Salle quarter back, is going to Manhattan College, and Kerr, the Cutler quarter back, goes to Cornell. Cutler had all rivals beaten on quarter back runs. There was a scarcity of promising line men on the school teams. Fountin of Barnard was one of the best. Among the New York school teams four or Ine men on the school teams. Fountin of Barnard was one of the best.

The season has been marked by an epidemic of poor handling of the ball, such as fumbles and muffs of punts, and poor judgment in gauging kicks. Errors such as these add uncertainty to the game, but have been too frequent considering that teams supposed to be possessed of the most skill have been guilty of them. In baseball when a player muffs or fumbles to the extent of losing numerous games he either gets sufficient practice to overcome the fault or loses his job. More practice in handling the ball, one of the rudiments, seems to be needed by the football players. In baseball a game or two lost by error does not signify much, but in footbaff, where only one or two big games are played and where there is so much at stake, fumbles become much more expensive. It is in the big games this year that the fumbles have been most prevalent. There are schoolboy teams in this city that handle the ball a good deal better than it was handled in the Yale-Princeton, Harvard-Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania Columbia games, and lisrvard, Yale and Pennsylvania in particular might take lessons from the schoolboys. Such headlessa and costly misjudgments and butter-finger work on Judging kicks and shiding on to the ball as was done by Tennsylvania against Columbia, Yale against Princeton and Harvard against Pennsylvania against Columbia. Yale against Pennsylvania against Columbia, Yale against Pennsylvani ference which formed quickly and ran well, were able to get around the ends for long runs. It is understood that end runs will be the chief means of attack against Union. When the scrub received the ball on the varsity's 5-yard line they were unable to advance it an inch, and after ten minutes' work the ball was on the 20-yard line. Two complete sets of backs were used on the 'varsity and three different quarters were tried, as Hulsort was able to get into the scrimmage for the first time in two weeks. Carsten was out for the first time and did great work at his old position at left guard.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 19.—The thirteen Princeton men who played in the game with Yale last Saturday will leave Princeton tomorrow for Boston and on Saturday will attend the Yale-Harvard game at Cambridge. The men are taking this trip at the expense of the Princeton Athletic Association. Last year the association entertained the players in the contest with the Elis in the same way, but at that time there were twenty-one men instead of thirteen who were taken on the trip.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19.—Over 1,000 students cheered the Yale varsity squad from in front of the campus this afternoon, when the team and substitutes and retinue of coaches, trainers and rubbers left this city for Boston for the game with Harvard on Saturday. Several hundred followed the football men to the railroad station and from the platform gave the Yale cheer time and again as the train pulled out of the station. The squad did not appear to be in the best of spirits and, as one man expressed it, the varsity looked like a bunch of licked football players going home rather than an eleven off for a victory over their old rivals. Bloomer was with the squad, but there is little prospect that he will go into the game. Mike Murphy, according to a statement of a friend of his to-night, predicted that Yale would run up a score of 18 points and that Harvard would not score.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—The chief feature of the practice of the Midshipmen football team to-day was the strong defence presented by the 'varsity. Heretofore the scrubs have been able to carry the ball almost as well as the 'varsity, but to-day the team held strong, and the scrubs managed to make first down about four times only. The 'varsity showed some improvement in offensive play also and scored two touchdowns. One of them, however, was made on a fumble, which Soule recovered; he then ran forty yards for a touchdown. The first score was made just after the first kick-off, and was earned by hard line bucking interspersed with an occasional end run for a few yards.

EASTON. Nov. 19.—Lafayette football

EASTON, Nov. 19.—Lafayette football players lined up this afternoon against Easton High School, the best football eleven in this section of the State, excepting Lehigh University, and the practice was sharp and beneficial. The High School plays a quick and tricky-game and it kept the 'varsity guessing. The contest was watched with interest by the seniors, no other classmen being admitted to the grounds. Lafayette is well satisfied with the condition of the team and looks forward with confidence to Saturday's contest with Lehigh.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—If the schedule of the High School games can be finished at an early date it is probable one of the local scholastic teams will make an Eastern trip to battle with the Brooklyn High School eleven and give the Eastern boys a chance to avenge the decisive defeat of the Brooklyn Polytechnic team at the hands of Hyde Park last fall. A telegram was received by a member of the Hyde Park eleven yesterday asking if one of the local teams would be willing to play Brooklyn.

Ruing odds in Wall Street yesterday on the result of next Saturday's football game were 4 to 1 in favor of Yale. In the Broad street curb market a lot of small bets were made. Even money was bet that Harvard will not score Californians Believe The Fiddler to Be McNamara.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19 .- By means of a large photograph now in the possession of Capt. Forsee of the Pinkerton patrol the horse running under the name of The Fiddler, on which a large amount was won from the pool ons of the country, has been positively poolrooms of the country, has been positively identified as McNamara, a thoroughbred familiar to nearly all California racegoers.

The photograph was sent to the officials of the New California Jockey Club by Morris Park officials. It shows McNamara with the white star in the forehead the high and sloping hind quarter and all his other weil known peculiarities.

McNamara, the false The Fiddler, is a well formed race horse, while the real The Fiddler is a very rangy fellow rather "leggy." The difference between the two horses is very marked.

Gold Heels Not Sold, but Leased for Racing. LEXINGTON, Nov. 19 .- The published statement that T. P. Hayes had purchased the racehorse Gold Heels of Hind & Baker, Franklin county, for $5,000 is untrue. Mr. Baker states to-night that Mr. Hayes han merely the horse to train with the expecta-tion of winning the World's Fair Handicap at St. Louis, next season. If the horse does not stand training he will be sent back to the farm and retired permanently to the stud; otherwise Mr. Hayes is to pay Hind & Baker $4,000, and if he wins, a certain part of his earnings on the turf for the season, Mr. Baker says they have a standing offer of $10,000 for Gold Heels and that $25,000 would hardly buy him. merely the horse to train with the expectahardly buy him.

FORM PLAYERS IN CLOYER,

FIVE WELL PLAYED HORSES WIN AT BENNINGS.

River Pirate and Carbunele Take the Handi caps-Lord of the Valley a Surprise -Drake's Ort Welles an Easy Winner-Weather Cold and Track Fast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Four favorites and a heavily backed second choice won purses at Bennings to-day, where an exceptionally fine card was provided. Many New Yorkers were on hand and as all of them were form players they succeeded again in digging holes in the layers' bank accounts The weather was still cold, which kept the attendance down, and the track was in excellent condition.

John A. Drake mapped out a couple of victories with Ort Welles and Jocund, but while the former made good in the first race the latter was a big disappointment in the second. In the first event, for all ages, at six and a half furlongs, Ort Welles was a 1 to 2 favorite, with Orthodox second in favor at 17 to 10. Frank Farrell's Champlain made the pace to the turn, where Ort Welles took command and won easily by a length, with Champlain the same distance before Sals. Orthodox was away poorly and never Jocund was a 2 to 5 favorite in the second race, for two-year-olds, at six furlongs, but he was never prominent. Lord of the Val-

Carbuncle, 8 to 5 favorite, had an easy time in the last event, a handleap at a mile and an eighth, beating Tribes Hill by four lengths. The latter finished a half a length before Masterman, who was a neck in front of Circus.

street police station are on a quiet hunt for the band of desperadoes who broke into the headquarters of the Greater New York Democracy of the Eighteenth Assembly district last Thursday night and laid violent hands on a lifesize portrait of the Hon. Jacob A. Cantor, President of the Borough of Manhattan.

On that night the doors on the second floor of 201 Third avenue were forced open. comebody smashed the picture in the necktie with some sort of a blunt instrument, like a brick, leaving it useless for ornamental purposes, and then made away with the $25 gold frame which surrounded Considerable attention was also devoted to the organization's desk, the contents of which were scattered through three rooms. Four pictures of Col. George B McClellan and one of John F. Ahearn looked down serenely on the debris when the horrified G. N. Y. D.'s visited the scene next day.

The members of the organization wouldn't feel so thoroughly worked up over the affair if they hadn't lost two other valuable works of art in the last month. Shortly after John C. Sheehan flopped over to Tammany, somebody entered the rooms one night and made away with a lifesize photograph of the leader in a valuable gold frame, and also took a framed basrelief representation of a lady holding a bunch of grapes. Several members who had openly contested John C.'s right to hand over all the Greater New York Democrats to Tammany Hall were openly accused of the deed, but nothing was done.

The talent was in a quandary as to the winner of the third race, a handicap for all ages, at a mile and 40 yards, Lux Casta closing favorite at 6 to 5, with 7 to 8 against River Pirate. Lux Casta went to the front at the start, attended by Illyria, but River Pirate joined them in the backstretch and finally took the lead, maintaining it to the end, where he won cleverly by a length from April Shower, 8 to 1, with Wild Thyme, 5 to 1, two lengths behind. Lux Casta blew up in the last quarter.

MRS. J. L. MARTIN GETS DIVORCE

Supreme Court Justice Smith in Brooklyn herealleges that her husband is a stock broker and a member of the New York Consolidated Exchange, and that he has an in-dated Exchange, and that he has an income of $500 a week. She asked for $1,000 counsel fee and $100 a week alimony for the support of herself and infant son.

In her testimony she said she was a graduate of Packer Institute and also had been brought up in luxury. Testimony was given to show that the defendant made an assault on his wife at Lake Kiamesha, Sullivan county, on July 2, and that he was afterward intimate with Louise Dimmick. Justice Smith allowed Mrs. Martin $500 counsel fee and $7 a week alimony until her son is 12 years old. Then the alimony is to be increased to $10 a week.

SHE'LL CATCH HIM. An "Einer Muss Heirathen" Chase Into the County Court House.

288 Eighth avenue, ran up the Chambers street steps into the County Court House yesterday and plunged into a crowd of lawyers and jurors who were gathered in the rotunda during recess. She screamed out: "Stop him! Stop him! Stop thief!"

at the top of her voice, and in the twinkling of an eye the rotunda was almost deserted

It soon filled up again with men who had followed her into the Court House, and when she finally rested herself against a pillar she was surrounded by an inquiring crowd. She said that she had been deceived by a waiter called Young, and that he had offered to marry her, but kept putting the ceremony off. She cornered him yesterday and brought him down to the City Hall. Arrived there, she gave him $10 to pay the necessary fees, whereupon he took to his heels.

took to his heels.

Once in the Court House, Young walked over to the elevator and disappeared from the building by the ground floor while the woman was seeking him upstairs. She was advised to report her case to the City Hall police, but she declined, saying that she would catch Young herself.

WHISKEY LABELS IMITATED.

Spirit Traders' Society Is After Those Who Sell Bogus Seals.

For more than a year the manufacturers of two brands of whiskey, both of which are prominently advertised on the billboards, have been worried because of imitations. William F. Strauss, who represents the Spirit Traders' Society, has been gathering evidence, and on Wednesday he had William L. Strauss of 27 Warren street and 6 Sylvan court arrested on the charge of importing imitation seals and labels. He was locked up in the Tombs

According to Frederick F. Eisemann,

261 Broadway, attorney for the liquor distillers, Strauss has had large quantities of labels and seals made in Germany, and sells them to small bottling concerns here who turn cut the imitation product.

Mr. Eisemann keeps a large quantity of both the genuine and imitation article in his office, and says it is impossible to tell the difference by looking at the bottles. Strauss will be examined in the Tombs court next Tuesday.

Dutchess County to Take Steps to Prevent Diversion of Streams by This City. POUGHERPSIE, Nov. 19 .- In the Board of Supervisors to-day Supervisor Area of Wappingers offered a resolution, which was passed, calling upon the Chair to appoint a special committee to investigate the report that the New York Water Commission has recommended diverting streams in Dutchess county to the water supply of New York city, and ascertain what, if any, steps may be taken to prevent the consummation of these plans.

The resolution says that the taxable area which would be removed from the jurisdiction of Dutchess county is equal to two entire townships, and it declares that the proposed erection of dams and reservoirs would be a menace to life and property and destroy valuable industries. & Supervisors to-day Supervisor Area of
